Genre:
Docufiction, Experimental

Length:
30 min

Tagline:
Underwater. Underworld. Reborn.

Logline:
A human is reborn as a deepwater creature after being cast into darkness.
by a life built on evil deeds. In the depths beneath the waves, it begins to respect a light source.

Film References:
“The Blair Witch Project” & “What the Bleep Do We Know!?”

Director Statement:
“Redesigned” observes & delves deep into the belief and concept of reincarnation & the two-sided human. The focus also lies on human melancholia, robotics, ghost symbolism and the potential discoveries & truths, reaching beyond our human existence. Open-minded and experimental, this speculative piece of work aims to challenge & stir emotions while traveling towards the unknown. The film is a mixture of archive footage (1950’s - 1990’s) and 2D animation, fused with poetic narration.

Ripped From Holiness (Poem/Narration)

Written by Paul Jonas Kinnunen

Ripped from holiness, chambers of warmth...

Shadows of lust, pester a heart...

Succumb with weakness, wish for truth...

Guard all lies, seeding in soul...

Fester on delights, digest this flesh...

Prayers to the heavens, bless with belonging...

Doubting perfection, crave for the giving...

Growling voices, turning your lockers...

Forced on ice, I travel with seduction...

Confined within waters, I drown by cold...

Ripped from holiness, chambers of warmth...

Shadows of lust, pester a heart...

Succumb with wrath, wish for truth...

Apprentice of remembrance, tormented senses...

Fall by dawn, shattered is the path...

Steps of damnation, reveal a condemned soul...

Awaken a storm, where the red are drawn...

Desecrated fields, feel the core of mourns...

Crawl down this path, forced by grip...

Here our mind will soon forfeit...

Stones and sand, in the midst of prey...

Pure reflection, veils your eyes for days...
